POLITICAL NOTES.

—Some of the Democrats in Congress are opposed to the proposed additional tax on whisky. An exchange explains the situation by saying that the Bourbons regard a tax on that article as an attack on their party. Likely enough.

—The municipal government of New Orleans is in the hands of Democrats, and has been for a number of years. Yet we learn from the Nashville Banner that the city is bankrupt, and has not paid the last instalment on its bonds. These are the results of Democratic corruption and misrule.

—Objection is made to the exercise of suffrage by the blacks of the South because they are illiterate, but in what manner the negro, under Democratic rule, is ever to attain education and culture to raise him up to where the Democracy would be willing to give him the right of suffrage, not a solitary leader of that party has ever told us.

—The "Force bill" is so called because it proposes to empower the President to use forcible means to put down White League outrages, and other acts of mob violence against the laws and the public safety, and to protect the weak and despised from the persecution of the intolerant and strong. This, presumably, is the reason why the Democrats denounce the measure as "infamous."

—Mr. Fred Douglass, in a recent letter, counsels his race not to despair in regard to getting their full political and civil rights, but to appeal to the sense of right in men, to Congress, to the President, to Faneuil Hall and Cooper Institute, and to every other source of moral and intellectual power. The final trial will come, he says, and "through the same influences and the same political party through which we have reached our present political status."

—And now the Democratic Commonwealth of Georgia takes her place among the other repudiating States of the South, her Legislature having just declared unconstitutional, null and void the second series of $600,000 in bonds, indorsed by the State in 1870, issued to the Macon and Brunswick Railroad, notwithstanding that the indorsement was declared valid and binding by the Legislature of 1872. This is repudiation, simple and naked, and stands as a fair specimen of Democratic veracity and honor.

—Here is one illustration of the way in which the decision of the Indiana Supreme Court, excluding colored children from the public schools of that State, works. A well-to-do citizen, whose family is the only one in the township in which he resides, writes to the Indianapolis Jornal stating that the whites will not permit his children to attend the public school notwithstanding that he pays as much tax as half the district combined. The sure foundations of the State are laid in knowledge, not in ignorance; but the Democrats of Indiana appear to think otherwise.

—Senator Boutwell never said a truer thing than when, the other day, he charged that "at least one-half of the misfortunes of the South are due to the misdirected sympathy and criminal support given by the Democratic party of the North to the rebellious and unsubdued spirits of the South." Before, during, and since the war, that party, either by its promises or its policy has always, directly or indirectly, countenanced and encouraged them, thus constantly, even if unintentionally, inciting to new acts of violence and new scenes of disorder. Well does Thurlow Weed declare that that party "has justly forfeited the confidence of the country."

A PAIR OF WEALTHY JUSTICES.

Under this head the Watchman of last week takes occasion to call in question our statement, that the voters discriminated against poor men who were running for these offices, and favored the election of men who were abundantly able to live without the emolument which these offices would bring. This fling of our contemporary may do very well for their side, away from Bellefonte, where the facts are not known; but here, it is well known that the statement made in the Republican of last week is exactly correct. Mr. Gephart is reputed to be worth all we gave him credit for, and his colleague in the south ward is above want, about as high as $5000 or $6000, with no one depending upon him, while his opponent, Mr. Miller, is a poor man with a family, who has contracted in the service of his country, a complaint which renders him unfit to pursue his trade, or any other active outdoor employment. We thought it strange that the laboring men of Bellefonte should have conspired to defeat the two Republican candidates for Justice—two men possessing every qualification for the position—to elect in their stead, men no better qualified to say the least, and not needing the profits of the office for a support. Not that these men are rich in the common acceptance of the term, for, in these days of colossal fortunes, the wealthiest of the two might be called a very poor man, but as compared to their opponents they are both rich.

Mr. Miller is a deserving man, and was entitled to a cordial support from the party. He ought to have had the unanimous support of his party, and if he had received it, he would have been elected.

Republicans, if we ever want any future success, either in Bellefonte where we have the power, or in the county where we have it not, we must all work together and do the best we can every time for our ticket—not allow ourselves to be broken up into factions to be preyed upon by designing intrigues. Every time the line is broken, we are, in a measure, demoralized. Let the slights we have received in the past be forgotten. Let the dead past, bury its dead. Let us be faithful one towards another, for in "union there is strength." Then shall we win many a victory, that will not only be a surprise to our opponents, but even to ourselves.

BUREAU OF EDUCATION.

The Bureau of Education had its rise in the need long felt by leading educators of some central agency by which the general educational statistics of the country could be collected, preserved, condensed, and properly arranged for distribution. The sense of this need found expression finally in the action taken at a convention of the superintendence-department of the National Educational Association, held at Washington, February, 1866, when it was resolved to memorialize Congress in favor of a National Bureau of Education. In answer to this appeal, Congress did, March 1st, 1867, pass a bill creating a Bureau of Education. This act says, that this bureau is established "for the purpose of collecting such statistics and facts as shall show the condition and progress of education in the several States and Territories, and of diffusing such information respecting the organization and management of school systems and methods of teaching as shall aid the people of the United States in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school systems, and otherwise promote the cause of education."

This Bureau has now been established eight years and in that time it has done an incalculable amount of good to the cause of education in the country, and its influence has extended even to the nations of the old world, while the cost to the government has been but the merest trifle. When the office was first created the sum of $20,000 was appropriated to defray its expenses, but even this niggardly sum was cut down from time to time, until March 17th, 1874, when Dr. Barnard was succeeded by the present commissioner, it had reached the insufficient sum of $6000, leaving the office shorn of honors and emoluments, the salary of commissioner cut down from $4,000 to $3,000, and only two clerks at a salary of $1,200 each, to collect from all quarters of the world, information upon school matters to be circulated throughout all our country. This exceedingly inadequate force he has, with the cordial aid of the President, of the Secretary of the Interior, and of Congress, succeeded in increasing to something nearer an approximation to the work to be performed, though it remains still greatly short of what the wide range of the duties of the Bureau calls for.

An idea of the magnitude of its work may be obtained when we remember, that the field for operation it presents, embraces thirty-seven States and eleven Territories; its correspondence reach to 206 cities; 132 normal schools, 144 business colleges, 54 kinder garten, 1,455 academies, 103 schools especially engaged in preparing pupils for the colleges, 240 institutions for the higher training of young women, 383 colleges and universities, 73 schools of science, 115 of theology, 37 of law, 98 of medicine, 585 libraries, 26 art museums, 53 museums of natural history, 40 institutions for the instruction of deaf mutes, 28 for the blind, 9 for the feeble minded, 400 for orphans and 45 for the reformation of misguided youth.

The "diffusion" of the information thus collected, to "aid the people in the establishment and maintenance of efficient school-systems and otherwise promote the cause of education," is the second branch of the work to be performed. The language of the law, however, here, "such information as shall aid," widens the field of research considerably; sends the Bureau to the study of school-systems elsewhere prevalent, and induces inquiry as to the ministries of instruction in the several European States, as to the useful suggestions in foreign educational reports and journals, and as to the systems of training in the universities, gymnasia, real-schools, schools of architecture and drawing, and the various institutions for primary education in every civilized community or state, that whatever is peculiar or excellent in each, may be collected, with a view to the assistance of our educators in their work.

It will be seen by this brief statement what a vast amount of labor has to be done, and also an idea can be gained of the vast amount of influence for good such a department is capable of exerting.

THE LIBRARY OF THE BUREAU.

Full justice could not be done to the Bureau without some notice of this department of its work. As one of the fruits of its researches into educational facts and statistics, a library of almost unexampled richness in its special line has gradually grown up beneath its hands. This is, in part, composed of choice collections bearing on the history and art of education in this country and abroad; in part, of the accumulations made in the process of annual examination into the condition of public school-instruction, the state of academies and colleges, and the rise and work of professional and special schools.

For one element of it, there come in, each year, the educational journals of the country, the reports on education from our various States and Territories—including not only those of State-superintendents in the counties—and those of the cities and large towns. To these are added the annual reports of high schools, union-schools, preparatory schools, and normal schools; of young ladies seminaries, business-colleges, agricultural colleges, classical and scientific colleges and universities, with the schools of science, law, medicine, and theology standing connected with these or apart; while to close the list come schools for orphans, for deaf mutes, for the blind, for youth that need to be reformed as well as taught, for the instruction of a force of well-trained nurses, of apprentices for our marine, and of officers for the Army and Navy of our Government. Collections of school-laws go to fill up the list and aid in the investigation of systems of instruction; while prominent publishers of educational works send in their specimens to show what improvements in the means of teaching are continually going forward.

All these collections are, as fast as time and means permit, so bound, classified, and properly arranged as to be immediately available for any line of educational research to be attempted, whether it refer to the forms of State and city-systems of instruction or to the condition of academic, collegiate, professional, or special training in any recent period or year.

For another element there are full sets of reports on education from Great Britain and Ireland, Germany, France, Austria, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Italy, Sweden and Norway, the British Colonies, Brazil, and the Argentine Republic, while pretty full, though not complete, ones are on hand from Denmark, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, Russia, Egypt, Chili, Mexico, Ecuador, and the United States of Columbia.

Both these two elements come in with little other expense to the Bureau than the exchange of its own publications with the governments, officers, institutions, and publishing-houses from which they are received.

Then, as a third element, there are, besides encyclopedias for reference, as large collections as small funds will admit of works relating, in a variety of ways, to the education and civilization of the world, the progress of knowledge, the development of art, and the condition of literature and science.

Works bearing directly on education as a science or an art form a fourth element. Among these may be enumerated: (1) Works of all the prominent German writers on these themes, such as Comenius, Basedow, Pestalozzi, Niemeier, Beneke, Denzel, Graser, Schleiermacher, Herbart, Diesterweg, &c.; (2) all the important works on the history of education in Europe, as well as in the United States; (3) a large number of German, French, and English treatises on educational questions; (4) the chief German, British, Austrian, French, Swiss, and Italian educational periodicals; (5) the many works on special topics in the line of education that have grown out of the controversies, the needs, and the desire for information of the last few years in our own country and abroad.

Those who have had opportunities for comparison of this with kindred libraries abroad do not hesitate to say that, great as are the means for such collections under the monarchies of Europe, this of the Bureau of Education is, for the ground it covers and for purposes of practical investigation, superior to any in existence, except, perhaps, one at Vienna. And of course, as its accumulations are continually going forward and its materials more and more systematized for work, its value as a library of reference increases with each added year.

GIRARD COLLEGE FUND.

We have received the "Fifth Annual Report of the Directors of City Trusts" of the city of Philadelphia. From it we learn some facts that may be of interest to our readers.

The Girard College opened in 1847 with 150 orphans; now it has 550, the limit of the capacity of the present buildings. The income from the estate in 1874 was $600,000; expenses of the college, $400,000; leaving $200,000 surplus. The income is largely on the increase, and it is not easy to say where it will stop. Twelve coal mines, unproductive at Mr Girard's death, have been opened, and yield a large revenue. The estate has 550 acres of land in the Southern part of Philadelphia, which will soon produce an immense income. There is sufficient land on the Passyunk Road to put up from 10,000 to 12,000 houses, and they would yield to the estate at least $1,500,000 per year. Every year the trust could expend $200,000 in buildings, which would yield ten per cent. on the outlay. The taxes paid by the estate to the city last year were $75,000. Girard College is soon destined to become the most magnificently endowed institution in the world.

There has been an effort made for several years past to cut streets through the college grounds, which has been resisted by the trustees. It certainly seems a pity that an effort should be made to do anything to in any way lessen this valuable heritage of the orphan children of Philadelphia. If streets are ever cut through grounds that have been rendered doubly sacred by the bequest of a munificent benefactor, and by repeated enactments of the Legislature of the State, and of the Councils of the city, will it not have a tendency to prevent other charitably disposed persons from making similar bequests?

On the inside of this number of the Republican may be found an article on the Nebraska sufferers, showing how a certain military gentleman, who formerly lived in Centre county, sought to lift himself into the United States Senate, and also secure a pocket-ful of the needful. The correspondent says that the Omaha papers contained daily puffs of his "noble works."

We have no doubt that Brisbin himself supplied many of them with the material, for, before he started on his eastern tour, he furnished us with a very flattering puff for himself, with the request that we should publish it, which we did not do, for reasons which any one can understand who "knows the man."

—Judging from outside appearances, they had a domestic knock down and a drag out, in an uptown dwelling house the other night. Frantic yells and groans were heard coming from the house, and every now and then a rolling-pin or a stick of fire wood would dash past the window.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, March 3, 1875.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR.

The present Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania is now in the second year of its existence. Under our new Constitution the October elections, which in former years determined presidential issues, are no longer held; and as the people of this commonwealth desire that the adage "as goes Pennsylvania so goes the Union," shall continue with as much force of truth as hererofore, the strongest efforts will be made by both parties to win in the struggle for Governor next fall, upon the presumption that whichever party carries the State in November, 1875, that party will surely carry it in November, 1876; and that the twenty-nine electoral votes of Pennsylvania will decide the presidential contest of next year. This is the reasoning of the leading politicians of the State, and nominations for State officers will be made in accordance with that theory.

The Republicans practically have but one candidate—the present Executive of the State, Gen. John F. Hartranft—although Philadelphia will elect a delegation in the interest of Mayor Stokley, who will vote solidly for the Mayor, with no other purpose in view than that of giving him a "good send off" for the nomination at the expiration of Hartranft's second term—in the event of his re-election.

Luzerne will warmly press the claims of W W Ketchum, Congressman elect from the Luzerne district; they will argue that while the tidal wave of 1874 shipwrecked Republican candidates for Congress in all close districts, and in many where the majority was really large, Ketchum manfully stemmed the tide, and in a district that gave 2,000 Democratic majority for the state ticket scored a majority of 800 for himself.

Allegheny will endeavor to harmonize her disturbant elements by presenting a solid front for Senator Graham, as the candidate of her choice for Governor; and after her turbulent spirits are quieted will, like Philadelphia, wheel into line for Hartranft, who, in accordance with party usages must become the standard bearer of his party.

The strongest men yet named by the Democrats, are Senator Buckalew, Col. Noyes, of Clinton, Judge Ross, of Montgomery, and Senator Playford, of Fayette.

That class of Democrats represented by the old gentleman who wears a swallow-tail blue coat, with gilt mountings, and a three ounce fob seal, will support Senator Buckalew; the young Democracy will rally round Playford, and Noyes will be as strong as either of them, while Ross will have a following respectable in numbers, and strong in its rough and tumble character.

Another fraction to be considered in this problem of Pennsylvania politics, is the probable candidacy of Ex-Gov. Curtin. It is now only a complex fraction, and though it may not be more than one-third of seven-eighth, yet Aleck. McClure, who is superior at developing whole numbers from common or complex fractions is entirely satisfied that this fraction will produce an integer.

McClure regards it about in this manner: Curtin, as a component part of the candidate to be nominated for Governor, becomes, by the accretion of the strength of Buckalew and Noyes, who will withdraw in his favor, the whole number of the fractional part, which may be represented by No. 1. By carrying the State for Governor this year, he will develop sufficient strength to carry himself into Tilden's cabinet, in the event of the latter's promotion from Albany to the White House. With Curtin a Cabinet Minister, and McClure—but the best laid schemes of mice, and even of men, frequently miscarry, and should Hartranft be re-elected, the bottom falls out of the Curtin basket, and the eggs are smashed and the counted chickens come to grief.

JAY COOKE & CO.

It is now about eighteen months since the failure of this firm, and nothing has been done to liquidate their liabilities, except the payment of a 5-cent piece upon each dollar of indebtedness, and a proposition to distribute a proportionate amount of "Jay-bird" securities, of a character as doubtful as the financial standing of the bankrupts themselves; but before even these almost worthless securities—mostly Northern Pacific Rail-road bonds—could be distributed some one in the interest of the Northern Pacific company nominally, but in reality in the interest of the bankrupt firm, claims that Jay Cooke & Co. were subscribers to the stock of the N. P. R. R. company for a large amount; that their subscription has not been paid; that they are bound to pay it, and that the bonds held by the bankrupts ought to be applied towards the payment of the subscription on that stock.

Judge Cadwallader, after hearing the petition of counsel representing the N. P. Company, informed the trustee that any distribution of stock to creditors would be at his own risk; and it looks as though Jay Cooke & Co., as owners of the Northern Pacific Company, would get nearly all the assets of Jay Cooke & Co. the bankrupt bankers, excepting that little 5-cent piece on the dollar. This firm is expecting to be discharged from bankruptcy at an early day, with a good character, and will probably resume business again.

THOS. A. SCOTT VS. JOHN W. GARRETT.

In September, 1874 a number of railroad officials representing what are called the grand trunk lines, met at Saratoga and entered into a compact to maintain certain high rates for freight traffic and passenger fares. A month ago John W. Garrett, president of the Baltimore and Ohio company, stepped down and out from the "Saratoga Compact," and in the interest of producers West, and Consumers East, and the traveling public everywhere, reduced the rate of fares and freight about 40 per cent. This action of the Baltimore president has "riled" Col. Thomas A. Scott, president of the Pennsylvania Rail-road Company, who has retaliated by refusing to carry passengers over that division of the Pennsylvania Railroad extending from Philadelphia to New York, on through tickets sold by the Baltimore and Ohio company. This action causes a delay of several hours in Philadelphia, for all such passengers and a vexatious disarrangement of freight traffic.

It is an ugly quarrel as it now stands, and excepting among stockholders of the Pennsylvania company, I find few sympathizing with Col. Scott. The end of it will doubtless be a compromise by which lower freights and traveling rates will be secured. I trust, however, that under the general rail road law of Pennsylvania Mr. Garrett will be enabled to build a competing line from this city to New York, which, with his probable acquisition of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Line will give him a through line from New York to Chicago, Washington and the South.

A DREADFUL PRACTICE.

It is the practice with a number of our leading retail establishments in this city to treat their lady customers to a glass of wine when they make shopping visits especially during very cold weather, like that we have had this winter. A few days ago an estimable young married lady, residing in Camden, N. J., came across the river to do some shopping. She visited the dry-goods house where she usually makes her purchases, and after buying what she wanted, was handed a glass of wine. She returned after leaving that store, in a few minutes, to purchase something that she had overlooked, and was handed another glass of wine. Not being accustomed to drinking, the liquor went to her head, and she began wandering around town, and soon landed at Sixth and Bedford streets, the lowest neighborhood in Philadelphia. Here she was seen by a man on the look-out for such cases, who was leading her to a house of prostitution, when he was overtaken by policeman John Duffy, and the lady rescued.

As the woman was too much intoxicated to give her name or residence, she was taken to the 19th district police station. Seventy-six dollars were found in her possession, a handsome gold watch and diamond rings. A few hours after she recovered, and her husband was telegraphed for who had in the meantime been searching everywhere for her; and at 4 o'clock the next morning he arrived at the police station and took his wife, aged only 22 years, and the mother of two children, home. The husband is one of the leading business men of Camden, and had it not have been for policeman Duffy, the lady would have been robbed and outraged it may have been, murdered. The Camden family is too respectable to name but if the husband prosecutes the dealer, it will not be libellous to name him in double-leaded caps as a tradesman who gave his customers drugged wines.

The average yield per acre of corn, wheat, oats, barley, buckwheat and potatoes is greater in Penna. than in Illinois by 15—3—7—6—5 and 29 bushels respectively. In values an acre in corn yields $15 more in Penna. than Illinois $7.48 in wheat; $1.95 in rye; $5.5' oats; $6.51 in barley; $5.56 in wheat; $20.61 in potatoes.

(From an occasional Correspondent.)

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 10, 1875.

Your correspondent presumes that you would desire to be placed in possession of the facts in regard to the "tempest in a teapot" which has been raised about the grasshopper sufferers in Nebraska. I will not occupy your time with any detailed account of the ferocious grasshopper, as he makes his annual visit to these Western States. It will be sufficient here to state that the insect did make its appearance in unusual quantity last year, and that a great havoc was made with the crops. This is one of the scourges which is expected, and which those who migrate to this country for agricultural purposes take their chances on. It so happened, however, that last year the grasshopper plague could be turned to advantage by the politicians. An election for United States Senator was to come off, and there was no lack of patriotic gentlemen who craved the position, and he, among the anxious, who could command the greatest pressure from the people upon the Legislature, would undoubtedly stand a good chance to step into Mr. Tipton's shoes.

THE HISTORY OF A MILITARY GENTLEMAN.

Now it so happened that among the military gentlemen here there was one who had, in ante bellum, edited a small newspaper in one of the country towns of Pennsylvania, and who was indebted for his commission to some real or imaginary political service. He is simply a small politician, but he has—without much education—a good knowledge of all the tricks of his trade, and he appeared to have a great influence with the General commanding the Military Department of the Platte. He could by no possibility ever learn anything of his profession as a soldier, but his position was too good to abandon until something better should turn up. He had an inordinate itching for political position, and he would fly upon the wings of the morning—and the grasshoppers—to the United States Senate.

HOW THE HUMBUG WAS WORKED.

It was an easy matter to talk the leading men at Omaha into the belief that there never was such devastation and suffering in Nebraska before, and that the Government, and particularly the army, should do something to relieve the people. It was not dificult to get up meetings and to form committees, at the head of one of which was to be the amiable, but to say the least rather eccentric commanding General. Now was the work fairly commenced. The warrior and philanthropist, Brisbin, was to be ordered to perform the military duty of proceeding to Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, New York, and to the utmost part of the East, and proclaim the woes and sufferings of the people of Nebraska, and to collect money and other trifles. The newspapers throughout the country have told the rest. Large amounts of money and supplies were collected. Our generous people at the East can easily be humbugged, and in this particular case they were much more effectually deluded than were the good people of Nebraska.

The papers had been full of the noble devotion of our warrior politician. In Omaha the papers contained daily puffs of his noble works, for he had taken care to secure the good will, or apparent good will, of the city editors, who, before they were aware of it, were fully compromised in the scheme.

INJURY DONE TO THE STATE.

Soon, however, some people began to see through the flimsy artifice, and to recognize that, by the course pursued, the State was being terribly—perhaps irretrievably—injured. Nebraska was the land cursed by the Almighty—made a waste desert, to which no intelligent emigrants could ever be expected to come. In fact, a pleasant and prosperous State was to be ruined to make a little capital for political tricksters, and to get a little money from the United States Treasury.

THE NEWSPAPERS READY TO DENOUNCE THE SCHEME.

One of the Omaha papers, the Bee, made a feeble resistance, and before the Brisbin crusade at the East was half over I think that all of the respectable newspapers of the State would have been glad to denounce the whole scheme. Well, the election for Senator came off. The newspaper puffs, and the touching letters of the warrior candidate, which stated that he had sent "$1,25 to Mrs. Martha Duncan, of Harlan County, Neb., who has a little baby and no milk for it," were duly circulated, and everything appeared to work well. The "General," whose military duty appears to consist in traveling about the country, put in his appearance at the State capital, putting on his most approved Democratic airs. But, alas, he did not receive a single vote. I notice, by a newspaper article, that "Gen. Brisbin has again gone East to make collections for the grasshopper sufferers." Prudent people will do well to investigate this matter before a further opening of their purse-strings.

THE TRUE STATE OF THE CASE.

Your correspondent does not desire to call in question the acts of really benevolent persons here or at the East, but it is perfectly evident to every intelligent and thinking person that this "Nebraska Relief Fund" is a great misfortune to the state. I will inclose an editorial from the Omaha Herald, of the 6th inst. which will throw more light on the subject than I can give. The "Herald" is one of the leading papers in the State, and ably edited. It published the puffs of Brisbin for weeks, and foolishly went into the great fraud without proper reflection. You will perceive what the editor now thinks of the whole procedure:

"That there has been some real suffering in the grasshopper district of this State we do not doubt, and it is probable that a few would go hungry if not fed by charitable people, but we have evidence that the destitution there has been fearfully exaggerated. One man in real danger of starvation has been made to stand for a host, like the soldiers in Falstaff's grand army. And that one man, who was really pinched by want in the early part of the winter has since spent a more comfortable winter than he has known since he has been on the frontier. We talked yesterday with a gentleman well known to us as a careful observer, who has just returned from the striken district. He passed through several counties, stopped to partake of the hospitality of the people, and he knows their circumstances. He went as far west as Buffalo County, and was not able to see or hear of anybody in distress. Many were getting along much better than they would have done had there been no grasshoppers. Hall and Buffalo Counties had good crops of oats, wheat, and barley, and a very fine crop of potatoes. The vines were eaten away by the grasshoppers, but they grew again and produced well, both as to quality and quantity of the yield. "The merchants in the stricken district are doing a better trade than they have ever done at this season of the year." One of these merchants had a homesteader at work for him for $1 per day, but when the relief supplies began to arrive he quit at once and has not since returned. It is known, also, that men who have 300, 400, and 500 bushels, of wheat will apply for their portion of the seed that is to be furnished gratuitously. Their doctrine is and they take little pains to conceal it, that they might as well have it as anybody. Not long ago a gentleman who owns land in one of the stricken counties, sent out to a resident to buy for him a certain quantity of county warrants. The agent wrote back that warrants could be had in former years for sixty-five cents, but the relief fund had made the people so independent that it was difficult to touch them at any price—certainly not less than ninety cents. A gentleman who lives in one of the grasshopper counties has lately said that facts had come within his knowledge showing that "aid had been contributed by people in humble circumstances in the East for relief of supposed sufferers who were more comfortable than the donors." These circumstances, taken in connection with the further fact that up to the 15th of January more coal had been sent into the grasshopper district and given away than was shipped over the railroads to those counties in all of last year, when the people paid for their coal, show pretty clearly how this matter stands. We hope nobody will be influenced by this view of the situation to withhold aid from the really needy; but truth is healthful and justice wrongs no none.

SUPPLIES DISTRIBUTED TO PEOPLE WHO ARE BETTER OFF THAN THE DONORS.

A half a score of army Lieutenants are at this time scattered around in different parts of the State, by the orders of the commanding General, distributing clothing and supplies to people who are probably as well if not better off than they ever were before in their lives. A story is told of one man who appeared at one of the towns on the railroad with a two-horse wagon to demand a contribution of a load of flour. He confessed that he had never been so well off before, but "as long as the provisions is goin' I want my sheer," said he. In some localities it is doubtful whether the people will put in any crops this year, as they say that there is no use planting for the hoppers, and that enough has been given them to last them through the year.

INQUIRE BEFORE YOU GIVE.

Had the real facts in this matter been made known, the appropriation of money from the United States Treasury would never for one moment have been seriously considered, and if any such money has been appropriated, the sober, serious, thinking people of the State would much prefer to see it recovered into the United States Treasury, the sayings of Senator Hitchcock and other politicians of smaller grade to the contrary notwithstanding.

SPRING ELECTIONS.

Below will be found the official returns of the local election, in this county, as filed in the Prothonotarys office, with the exception of the vote of the different wards of Bellefonte which was published in full last week. In a few of the districts a large number of persons are returned as receiving one vote each, we have omitted from the published returns:

THE DAY WE CELEBRATE.

There are numerous people living who looked upon the face of Washington in the flesh, and a few men, whose years have stretched into two centuries, who fought with him in the War for Independence. His body-servants, as we all know, are a hardy race, who promise to last in large numbers to the crack of doom; and every now and then we read in some Southern newspaper of an ancient "aunty" still in the full possession of her faculties, and bidding fair to live for another decade, who remembers to have baked the bread and broiled the chicken which nourished the frame of the Father of his Country.

It will not be a century till June since he assumed command of the Continental army, and his Farewell Address was issued not quite fourscore years ago, and yet the great and good man is comparatively forgotten. Republics may not be ungrateful, but their memories are brief. Ours has grown so rapidly; its population has changed so greatly; so many of us enjoy the heritage who have no kinship with those who won it, except that which makes the world a family; our institutions, thoughts, and aspirations have been so modified by time; riches have certainly accumulated, and perhaps men have decayed; for some reason—it may be one of these or all of them—Americans of to-day have not the reverence for Washington which their fathers and their fathers' fathers had.

He was "'First in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen'—and last to get a monument." So runs the popular jest. Our children are less reverent than were the men of the last generation. This is an age of iniquity, and nobody believes anything that cannot be proved. The cherry-tree has withered, and the little hatchet has rotted away with rust, as rubbish of a bygone time. The Swiss peasants cling to the arrow and apple story which is associated with their national deliverer, but our precocious youth can tell them that it is a myth, and quote learnedly from Professor Fiske to prove its Aryan origin, and how it traveled from Asia with that people thousands of years ago.

But whether we make a demi-god of Washington or not, we are rich in having such a hero. No other people were ever so blessed. It would seem as if Heaven knew our want and sent us the man. And one of the greatest uses the celebration for which we are preparing serves, is its revival, not only of his memory and deeds, but of those of his fellows. These Martha Washington receptions, tea parties, and international assemblies, do more than amuse children and gratify the vanity of their elders. They bring back the examples and lives of the fathers and mothers of the country as well as their masks and costumes. And in a day when there is schism in politics, fraud in administration, and falsehood in public men, it is well to turn to the time when the nation had but one aspiration, which was to be free; when their honor was a jewel which men valued above a crown; and there were boys who could not tell a lie. We may not worship them, for we have no national mythology in which to build their throne, but the story of their deeds has the action for a grander poem than the Iliad. We do not believe that it will be forgotten.

The simple faith of the Pennsylvania Dutch boy, whose greatest treasure is a stone which Washington threw at a wood-pecker on his grandfather's farm, and whose father still votes for General Jackson, may decay, but the love and admiration of the hero who is sleeping in the soil of his beloved Virginia will grow with every year the nation lives and every American born.—Philadelphia Press.

A Judge's Temperance Lecture.

At Morris, Grundy county, Ill., three saloon keepers—one woman and two men—were arrested and indicted for selling liquor to minors. As usual in such cases, the liquor-sellers were lavish of their funds in aid of their unfortunate co-worker, an eminent counsel was employed in defense of these destroyers of the bodies and souls of the young and rising generation. But the proof of their guilt was so fully demonstrated that the jury was compelled to pronounce them guilty.

Hon. J N Reading, the presiding judge, (would that the bench were filled with more like him) in pronouncing the sentence of the court, used the following language:

"The jury having found you guilty of selling intoxicating liquors to a minor, it remains for the court to pronounce the sentence of the law. The penalty of the offense, fixed by the Legislature, indicate that it considered the crime to be of a serious character. By the law you are to sell to men and women, if they buy. You have given your bond, and paid for your license to sell to them, and no one has a right to molest you in your legal business. No matter what destitution and poverty are produced by your selling according to law, you have paid your money for this privilege, as you are licensed to pursue your calling. No matter what families are distracted and rendered miserable, no matter what wives are treated with violence, what children starve or mourn over the degradation of a parent, your business is legalized and no one may interfere with you in it. No matter what agonies over the loss of a son, or sister blush for the shame of a brother, you have a right to disregard them all and pursue your legal calling if you are licensed. You may fit up your lawful place of business in the most enticing and captivating form; you may furnish it with most elegant and costly equipment for your lawful trade; you may fill it with the allurements of amusements; you may use all your art to induce visitors; you may skillfully arrange and expose to view your choice wines and most captivating beverages; you may induce thirst by all contrivances, to produce a raging appetite to the full—because it is lawful you have a license.

You allow boys almost children to frequent your saloon. They may become witnesses of the apparent satisfaction with which their seniors quaff the sparkling glass; you may be training them for the period of twenty-one, when they, too, can participate, for all this is lawful. You may hold the cup to the very lips; but you must not let them drink—that is unlawful. But, while you have all these privileges for the money you pay, this privilege of selling to children is denied you. Here parents have the right to say, 'Leave my son to me until the law gives you a right to destroy him. Do not anticipate that terrible moment when I can assert for him no further protection, that will be enough for me, for his mother, for his sister, for his friends, and for the community, to see him take his road to death. Give him to us in childhood, at least, let us have a few years of his young life, in which he may enjoy his innocence, to repay us in some degree for the care and love we have lavished upon him.' This is something you, who now stand a prisoner at the bar, have not paid for; this is not embraced in your license. You have your 'bond' to use to its full extent; but in thus taking your 'pound of flesh' you drew the blood and that which is nearest the heart. The law in its wisdom does not permit this, and you must obey the law. Its extreme penalty is thirty days imprisonment in the county jail and $100 fine; its lowest ten days imprisonment and $20 fine.

'For this offense the court sentences you to ten days imprisonment in the county jail, and that you pay a fine of $75 and costs, and that you stand committed until the fine and costs of the prosecution are paid.'

As may be imagined, the delivery of such a sentence produced considerable commotion, being praised by the temperance people as the best temperance speech of the season."

IF the bounty bill which passed in the House of Representatives on Saturday is the same that has been before every other House since the war, it is the most extraordinary piece of work done in this extraordinary session. If it were to become a law it would involve an expenditure of from fifty to seventy-five million dollars, and at a time when new taxes have to be laid to meet the ordinary expenses of the Government. Nobody is asking for the bill, nobody out of Congress wants it; and the House itself expects the Senate to throw it out, as it has repeatedly done already. And yet a majority of the Representatives seem to have watched their opportunity in a thin House to call up the bill and crowd it through without any more consideration than would be given to a bill for the relief of Ann Mullony for spraining her ankle on the steps of the capitol.—Boston Advertiser.

"THE boy who owns a fast horse and a nice cutter is the kind of a hair pin I want," remarked a character.

In the Bottom Drawer.

I saw my wife pull out the bottom drawer of the old family bureau this evening, and I went softly out, and wondered up and down, until I knew that she had shut it up and gone to her sewing. We have some things laid away in that drawer which the gold of kings could not buy, and yet they are relics which grieve us until both our hearts are sore. I haven't dared look at them for a year, but I remember each article.

There are two worn shoes, a little chip hat with part of the brim gone, some stockings, pants, a coat, two or three spools, bits of broken crockery, a whip and several toys. Wife—poor thing—goes to that drawer every day of her life and prays over it, and lets her tears fall upon the precious articles, but I dare not go.

Sometimes we speak of little Jack, but not often. It has been a long time, but somehow we can't get over grieving. He was such a burst of sunshine into our lives that his going away has been like covering our every day existance with a pall. Sometimes, when we sit alone of an evening, I writing and she sewing, a child on the street will call out as our boy used to, and we will both start up with beating heart and a wild hope, only to find the darkness more of a burden than ever.

It is still and quiet now, I look up at the window where his blue eyes used to sparkle at my coming, but he is not there. I listen for his pattering feet, his merry shout and his ringing laugh, but there is no sound. There is no one to climb over my knees, no one to search my pockets and tease for presents, and I never find the chairs turned over, the broom down or ropes tied to the door-knobs.

I want some one to tease me for my knife; to ride on my shoulders; to lose my ax; to follow me to the gate when I go, and be there to meet me when I come; to call "good night" from the little bed, now empty. And wife, she misses him still more; there are no little feet to wash; no prayers to say; no voice teasing for lumps of sugar or sobbing with the pain of a hurt toe; and she would give her own life, almost to awake at midnight and look across to the crib and see our boy there as he used to be.

So, we preserve our relics, and when we are dead we hope that strangers will handle them tenderly, even if they shed no tears over them.

Home.

After all, when one comes to think of it, there are not many homes. There are, of course, innumerable places which go by the name of homes, called so for a want of a better designation, or because everybody calls the place where he eats and sleeps "home; but when you come down to the real sober face, homes are comparatively scarce. A home is a refuge-place from the storms, the fret and worry of life. It is a place where the husband comes to a sanctuary, where smiles and loving words answer his smiles and loving greetings. It is a place where the wife reigns in her benignity and grace; not, it may be, the grace of the outward beauty, or cultivation, but the true womanhood, where she receives honor and love, even as she gives them both. It is a place where children are happier than anywhere else in the world, because there are the cheeriest words, the brightest looks and kindest acts. Such are not the majority of homes as we find them. How does it happen that when you see a real home, a light, pleasant spot where every one seems to be happy; where if husband and wife have misunderstandings, no one ever knows it; where the children seem to be hopeful of one another; where laughter and smiles are perpetual guests, why does it strike one as peculiar and noticeable? Simply because there are so few of them. I will not ask you to think of your own home. Let us indulge in the luxury of talking about our neighbors. There is Mr. Smith's house. What are your ideas about his home? You see him go in at nightfall, looking used up by the wear of the day, and if you could step in with Mr. Smith, and be there in invisible presence, I don't believe you would be wholly charmed with the look of things. Possibly the first words of Mr Smith are directed indefinitely, "What's all this noise about? I don't see why these children are kicking up such a row." The said children take the hint and move out of the way, not thinking—for which they are pardonable—to say "Good evening" to their father. He soon "settles" them. The family sit down to the evening meal. Mr. Smith feels tired and don't care to talk. The children have something to say, but they learned long ago that "father" does not care to be bothered with their tales of school, nor to be asked questions about kites and balls. He has forgotten all he ever knew about them, or, indeed, that he ever had them. They, sensibly enough, keep still. On the whole, they have, if not a bad, a very stupid time of it. The family is a company of animals, who feed, and leave when they have enough. They do not know precisely what to do with themselves; so they mope about, and are glad to go to bed, though they don't want to go, except to escape the dullness. Now this is not a beautiful picture, but is it a very uncommon one? An honest confession would tell of more homes of that sort than of better ones. Are they real homes?—

Two-Story Railway Cars.

The Railway "Times" of recent date says: The two-story railway carriage of Mr. Vidard, inspector of railway stock for the Great Western Railway of France which was fully described in the Railway "Times" of July 9th, was devised for the purpose of saving dead weight. He claims that it effects the transportation with a dead weight of only two hundred pounds per passenger against three hundred and twenty pounds per passenger on other continental carriages. Mr. Auchinclos, the United States commissioner, in his report of the Paris Exposition, says:—

"If our American system is scrutinized, we believe it will appear that few roads effect their transportation with less than five hundred pounds dead weight per passenger. Of course sleeping coaches are not considered, for with them the weight frequently reaches twice this amount. It is problematic whether or no this system could be generally adopted in the United States, where passengers are accustomed to so great latitude in their movements. But on lines converging large cities, as New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, etc., where the laboring classes reside within a radius of five or ten miles, it could be made to them a great boon, as well as source of profit to the railway companies.

For instance, where the companies now transport one hundred and twenty passengers in two cars weighing sixty thousand pounds, they could carry two hundred and forty passengers in three cars weighing forty-five thousand pounds, thus keeping the actual rolling weight at about the same figure, also the cost of transportation. But they could diminish the rate of fare to them fully twenty-five per cent, and still receive fifty per cent, in excess of their gross profits from the one hundred and twenty passengers. Cheaper travel would be attended by its legitimate results—an increase of those who would make the suburban districts their homes—and greatly extend the business of roads adopting so liberal a policy."

ACCORDING to Rapin, the Saxons were addicted to drink, and need such immense cups that King Edgar, to check this evil habit, ordered certain marks to be made in their cups, at a given height, above which they were forbidden to fill, under a severe penalty. These were called peg tankards, and a peg tankard is nowadays a great treasure. A peg tankard had on the inside a row of eight pegs, one above another from top to bottom. It was a noble piece of plate, and ordinary held two quarts, so that there was a gill of ale between each peg. The law was that every person who drank was to open the space between pin and pin, so that the pins were so many measures to make the company all drink alike. "This," says an authority, "was a contrivance for merriment, and a pretty sure method of making all the company drank, especially if it be considered that the rule was that whoever drunk short of his pin, or beyond it was obliged to drink again, or even so deep as the next pin." Consequently, in Archbishop Anselm's canons laid down at the Council of London, A. D. 1102, priests are forbidden "to drink to pegs." The expression "to take down a peg" has it origin in this custom, meaning to abate a man just as the liquor is abated.—New York Times.

Our rich men, real-estate owners great merchants, retailers, respectable, middle-class, worthy women, struggling to live honestly and honorably, these are our poor. They suffer and need sympathy. Their costly stores are not rented, their houses are shut up or tenants do not pay, country dealers fail to remit, city retailers cannot pay, expenses, taxes, and assessments are heavy and increase steadily, poverty and want stand just ahead, and there is really more heart agony, more keen suffering among our hitherto prosperous people, than among the laboring classes. "God help the rich" in these times, "the poor can beg." We are having failures every day among our wholesale and retail dealers. Very few houses are paying expenses. Many manufacturers are struggling on, sinking money steadily and seeing no hope. And of course we are not happy. —From the Boston Correspondent to the New Orleans Times.

SHOULD the election of the next President be thrown into the House of Representatives, as under certain contingencies it might, let us see the result. A Democratic President would be elected of course. The majority of the Democratic House, or as some counts make it, the majority within a vote or two, is composed of Confederate soldiers. This majority would absolutely control the Democratic action, especially when its civil support would be such men as John Young Brown. Jefferson Davis can become the next President of the United States.

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and languor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL

PURELY — DR. WALKER'S — CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

☞ We can furnish any weekly or monthly, publication in the United States at less than publisher's prices.

THE Annual meeting of the Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia Press Association will be held at the Union Depot Hotel, Pittsburg, at 10 o'clock A. M., on Tuesday, March 9th, 1875. A President, Secretary, and Board of Directors are to be chosen. It is a wonder that newspaper publishers have not long ago taken some more effective means to secure, by co-operation, living prices for foreign advertising. Pittsburg agents, especially, have offered such contemptable prices, that we have done hardly any advertising for business men of that city, and yet we see their advertisements in some of our exchanges. Some country editors have become so careless about this matter, that they fill up their papers with useless city advertising at prices that will hardly pay for the paper they are printed on, and many of them too, are an actual damage to their patrons, as they recommend to their attention the worst of frauds. If this Press Association can do any good to lessen this evil, we say, God speed them in the good work.

A LESSON OF THE HAMNETT TRAGEDY.

Jane Gray Swisshelm writes the following to the Pittsburg Commercial which contains much good advice and words of caution to parents. A friend has requested us to publish it.

Before this Hamnett horror passes out of the public mind, permit me to call attention to the lesson it teaches on the common habit of leaving children to the care of servants and other irresponsible persons. It is possible that Ortwein told the truth in his last confession, and that he had simply been waiting an opportunity which would certainly have come, sooner or later, but the probabilities are that he lied to the last, and only confessed that part of his crime which his shrewdness told him it was useless to deny; but, however this may be, the parents who went out for a social visit, and left two little girls, from dark until bedtime and late in the night, wholly in the power of an apprentice boy and tramp, cannot be held innocent in the catastrophe which followed. Poor Mr. and Mrs. Hamnett paid a sad penalty for their want of prudence; but while we regard them as victims, public safety requires that their neglect of duty should not go unnoticed.

It is the more important that attention be called to this view of the case, since their delinquency was of a kind so common in all classes of society. There are perhaps few parents who do not, sometimes, go from home and leave their children with persons to whose care they would not entrust fifty dollars in cash. True, few of the little ones are murdered outright by their gnrdians, because the number of absolute monsters in human form is limited; but many a child dies from unsuspected injuries received at the hands of those to whose care it has been confined, while father and mother took tea with a neighbor, attended a lecture, a concert, a theater, an evening party or prayer-meeting. Many a seed of disease is sown and many a lesson in immorality taught never dreamed of by the confinding parents. Those parents who, to enjoy any pleasure or means of improvement, leave their little ones to the care of a Biddy picked up in an intelligence office, or a tramp called from the roadside, are either grossly deficient in prudence or in natural affection, and certainly are morally responsible for the consequences of their neglect of duty.

It seems hard that a mother should be "tied at home;" but this is one of the conditions of motherhood, and no claim of society, no pretense of culture, no religious duty, no mission ever can release her from the obligation of personal care of her children.

Only when she is obliged to leave them to earn their bread can she be guiltless in forsaking her post, for an hour, without providing a substitute on whose sense of honor and affection she can rely.

This duty of constant, personal care devolves, principally, upon the mother, because it is the father's duty to go out and win their bread and when she goes for relaxation, it should be when he can supply her place at home. Society should not expect the father and mother of a family to go out together, for evening amusements, except when a grandmother, or other relation, takes their place at home. The birds might teach us useful lessons on this subject. One guards the nest while the other eats, and if this terrible tragedy teaches our people to think more of the danger of leaving children to the care of servants, it will be something gained.

Since Ortwein went to heaven I am more than ever glad there are "many mansions" in that country, for if e'er I am so fortunate as to get there, I am sure I should not want him in the house with me.

BLOOD DISEASES.

The blood being the source from which our systems are built up and from which we derive our mental as well as physical capabilities, how important that it should be kept pure. If it contains vile festering poisons all organic functions are weakened thereby. Settling upon important organs, as the lung, liver or kidneys, the effect is most disastrous. Hence it behooves every one to keep their blood in a perfectly healthy condition and more especially does this apply at this particular season of the year than at any other. No matter what the exciting cause may be, the real cause of a large proportion of all diseases is bad blood. Now Dr. Pierce does not wish to place his Golden Medical Discovery in the catalogue of quack patent nostrums by recommending it to cure every disease, nor does he so recommend it, on the contrary there are hundreds of diseases that he acknowledges it will not cure; but what he does claim is this, that there is but one form of blood disease that it will not cure, and that disease is cancer. He does not recommend his Discovery for that disease, yet he knows it to be the most searching blood cleanser yet discovered, and that it will free the blood and system of all other known blood poisons, be they animal, vegetable or mineral. The Golden Discovery is warranted by him to cure the worst forms of Skin Disease, as all forms of Blotches, Pimples and Eruptions, also all Glandular Swellings, and the worst form of Scrofulous and Ulcerated Sores of Neck, Legs or other parts, and all Scrofulous Diseases of the Bones, as White Swellings, Fever Sores, Hip Joint and Spinal Diseases, all of which belong to Scrofulous diseases.

CONFIRMED—HIP JOINT DISEASE CURED.

W. GROVE STATION, Ia., July 14, 1872.
DR. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—My wife first became lame nine years ago. Swellings would appear and disappear on her hip, and she was gradually becoming reduced, and her whole system rotten with disease. In 1871 a swelling broke on her hip discharging large quantities, and since that time there are several openings. Have had five doctors at an expense of $125, who say nothing will do any good but a surgical operation.

July 16th, 1873, he writes thus: My wife has certainly received a great benefit from the use of your Discovery, for she was not able to get off the bed and was not expected to live a week when she commenced using it, a year ago. She has been doing most of her work for over six months. Has used twenty bottles and still using it. Her recovery is considered as almost a miracle, many attribute it all to the use of your valuable medicine. I can cheerfully recommend it as a blood purifier and strength restorer. J. M. ROBINSON.

Discovery is sold by druggists.

In this age of scepticism, facts are required to inspire confidence in the minds of the people; but, with good indorsers, they are willing to test any article claiming extraordinary merit. The proprietors of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer offer the following indorsement of the merits claimed by them, for their preparation, by the Pittsburg, Pa., "Christian Advocate;" viz., "The public have so often been deceived by the use of worthless preparations for the hair, that an article of this kind, to gain their favor and secure their patronage, must possess real merit. We are glad to assure our readers that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is meeting with the success which its merits so justly deserves; and we have reliable evidence, that it will perform all that is claimed for it, in resorting gray hair to its natural color, and, as a permanent dressing, is unsurpassed.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

—"PETERSON'S JOURNAL OF POPULAR LITERATURE," for March, is received. Henry Peterson supplements his article in the last number on the Growth of the Earth, with an article on "THE DRYING UP OF THE SEAS," in which he shows how all the great inland seas are being dried up and wasting away, and therefore how strong the presumption is that the vast ocean itself is thus gradually drying up. He also brings forward some entirely new views as to the formation of mountain ranges and volcanoes.

John Smith has another article on the Hard Times, entitled "THE TRUE FINANCIAL POLICY," in which he takes the ground that the recent Resumption Bill, though manifesting great ingenuity as an embodiment of a diverse public opinion, is in itself a very unwise measure. He holds that the "menace" of Resumption is now preventing the revival of business, as capitalists will not invest in any business or industrial enterprise until the low price of labor, produce, land, &c., which Resumption will necessarily compel, are reached. His view seems to be, Let the Currency alone, neither increase nor diminish its volume; and the gradual expansion of business of the country will ultimately bring it so near the value of gold, that we shall be able to glide almost imperceptibly into specie payments, if the latter should be found desirable.

Besides these two articles there is a curious story called "A Druggist's Romance," by Eliza Archard, an interesting paper upon the hardships endured by Russia's political prisoners while "On the way to Siberia," a finely written romance entitled "Was-Hael," and a large number of other first-class stories, &c.

Terms: $3.00 a Year in Advance. Two copies $5.00 Postage Prepaid. Specimen copies 25 cents. Address H. PETERSON & CO., Walnu Street, Philadelphia.

—One of the greatest pleasures which St Nicholas brings to its readers, is certainly the monthly chapters of Miss Alcott's story. This time we catch a delightful glimpse of the "Eight Cousins," at home and in the very midst of the confusion and riot produced by the return of their sailor-uncle. Just as interesting, also, is the sight of Rose in her new fancy-costume, and the peep with her into that curious room never before explored, where she makes a great discovery.

But Rose is not the only character in the March number who meets with a remarkable surprise, for in Mr. Trowbridge's serial the young Surveyor is completely astonished by finding his stolen horse when and where he does. If ever there was an ingenious horse-thief, the fellow who captured "Snowfoot" was he! It is a proof of his cunning, that Jack, after all his efforts to find the missing animal, and his search has been at last strangely rewarded, is not yet "out of the woods," and seems to be threatened with another unexpected adventure.

Almost all boys and girls like naratives of wars and battles, and they will find a story of this sort in the poem called "The War of the Rats and Mice," which is every whit as thrilling in its way as the deeds of any favorite hero from Richard Cœur-de-Lion to Jack the Giant-Killer. The illustrations by Stephen are admirable; one of them, a true "battle-piece," representing a tournament both exciting and novel.

As for the rest of the number, we have several excellent stories by Frank R Stockton, Amalie La Forge and others, sketches of travel and science with illustrations, an article by W. H. Rideing on the Naval Academy at Annapolis, a French story, two delightful poems by Lucy Larcom and Mary E. Bradley, and—besides other good things—the irrepressible Jack-in-the-Pulpit, whose fun and jokes are always full of wisdom.

—Harper's Magazine for March, with over a hundred illustrations, is crowded with the richest variety of interesting reading matter. The opening article, by William H. Rideing, beautifully illustrated, introduces us to the bold scenery, antiquities, and quaint customs of the Isle of Man. A briefer illustrated article, by J. D. Champlin, Jun., describes the wonderful and picturesque Mont St. Michael. James Parton continues his illustrated papers on Caricature, this month treating of "Caricature in the Middle Ages," with especial reference to those burlesque designs which disfigure cathedrals and prayer-books. Eugine Lawrence gives a series of pen-and-ink pictures of the "Remains of Lost Empires," accompanied by magnificent engravings. A thrilling story is told by S. S. Conant, in another illustrated paper, of David Livingstone's researches in Africa and his last days. The Fifth Paper of the Centennial Series concludes the review of Mechanical Progress, with an exceedingly interesting and profusely illustrated account of those inventions of the century which concern printing and book-making.

John Bigelow concludes his remarkable paper on "De Witt Clinton as a Politician," giving us a striking account of the antagonism between Clinton and Van Buren, of Clinton's duel with Swartwout, and of his Presidential aspirations.

The second installment is given of Miss Thackeray's serial story, "Miss Angel;" and the "Rape of the Camp," is continued.

The editorial departments are especially interesting, Mr. Curtis contributing one of his most characteristic Easy Chairs, and the Scientific Record being unusually full and and interesting.

THE REPUBLIC MAGAZINE for February contains a number of well-written articles on the leading political questions now pressing upon the attention of Congress and the country. Under the head of "The Political Situation" there is a short, crisp, leading article on the tricks and motives of the Democratic White Leagues of the South and their allies, the Democratic Obstructionists in Congress. Following this are papers on "Carl Schurz as a Witness," Work of the 43d Congress," "Is the Country prepared for Democratic Rule?" "President Grant and his Assailants," "Senator Logan on the South," together with articles on "Gerrit Smith," "Canada and the United States," "Sketches of New Senators," &c. THE REPUBLIC is published monthly, at only $2 a year, or 25 cents a number, by the "REPUBLIC PUBLISHING COMPANY," Washington, D. C.

Bellefonte Markets.

BELLEFONTE, Feb. 24, 1875.

WHEAT—The supply of wheat still continues to be in excess of the demand, but we have no change in price, notwithstanding the price at Milroy is said to be ten cents per bushel below our quotations. So long as the Railroad Companies continue to discriminate against local freight just so long must the price of grain in the interior be below what it ought to be as compared with Western prices. For instance the freight on flour from Chicago to Scranton is 80 cents per barrel, and from Bellefonte to the same place it is 62 cts., although the distance from Chicago is about nine hundred miles and from here it is only one hundred and seventy miles.

CORN—In corn there is very little doing, and the transactions are light at our quotations, although there is some demand for shelled.

RYE—There is little rye being offered, which is readily taken by distillers.

OATS—Oats are offered in small quantities and the supply is not equal to the demand.

HAY and STRAW—Hay is offered in abundance but straw is scarce and wanted.

BUTTER—There is a greater scarcity of good butter than any other article in the shape of produce.

If some of the readers were compelled to eat such butter as they sell to our stores, we think they would be prompted to make a better article. We think it is high time that our borough authorities would either arrange to have a market house built or adopt such measures as will establish a curb stone market which would compel butter makers to come in contact with consumers who would soon find out if they did not make good butter they would not be able to find buyers.

EGGS—Owing to the extreme cold weather the production of eggs has been limited which makes them scarce.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Charles Lamb, Essayist, denounces all spirituous liquors as "Wet Damnation." Poor fellow; he knows whereof he spake, by sad experience, and if living, would apply the same to Alocholic Excitants, advertised as Curealls. But there is one Tonic and Alterative in existance—the best the world has ever known—which contains no alcohol. It is DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. 8-4w

We were pleased to see, not long since, in one of our exchanges, some pretty severe remarks addressed to several persons who, during an interesting lecture by Rev. John S. C. Abbot, kept a continuous coughing, which prevented many from hearing. People who cannot refrain from coughing, had better stay away from such places or take a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment with them

The importance of giving Sheriden's Cavalry Condition Powders to horses that have been out in the cold rain, stood in cold wind, or drank too much cold water, cannot be over estimated no man should be without them who owns; good horse.

VARIETY.

BY E. LINDLEY GRAY.

—It is astonishing how much enjoyment a five-year-old youngster will get out of an old tin pan and a fire poker.

—"Madilda, zend up my shird and slibbers, mighdy quick," was what a man said to his wife the other morning. He was probably suffering from a severe "gold in his 'ed".

—A little chap out West, raised a first class family row, recently, by stealing his mother-in-law's wig, to stuff a pair of boxing-gloves with. He probably got all the boxing he wanted.

—A man in New York by the name of Auter, recently got out a patent on a hair switch. It can, at the option of the wearer, be made into a chignon, waterfall or fountain curls, and auter take well among the women.

—A surveyor in New Bedford swallowed a pocket compass the other day, and now whenever he gets lost in the woods, all he has to do, is to lay down flat on the ground, give a little gulp, and his heels will immediately fly round and face the north pole with astonishing accuracy.

—A man walking along Alleghen y street the other day, was seen to stop all of a sudden as though jerked back from behind, then dash forward, throw his heels into the air, yell, and come down ker-wollop on his back in the utter. We would advise that man to be a little more cautious, hereafter, when walking upon ice.

—Another man ironed—flat-ironed we mean. This time the victim is a Maine man. His wife told him to mind the baby whilst she went out to make a few calls. He refused to comply with her request, at the same calling her a tarnal old imp. His physician thinks he may be able to chew within a week, but that he'll never have the use of but one side of his nose, hereafter, for smelling purposes.

—Mr. Dickson started down stairs the other morning with a lamp in one hand and an armful of baby clothing in the other, and when about half way down, he caught his foot in a hole in the stair carpet, and immediately pitched headlong to the landing below. He brought up under the hat-rack amongst the umbrellas and boots, and the lamp passed out through a pane of glass in the front door, onto the sidewalk. Mr. Dickson presided at the family breakfast table that morning with his arm in a sling, and a plaster across the bridge of his nose.

—A man coming down High street the other morning, deeply absorbed in thought, was suddenly brought to his senses by having his underpinning knocked out from under him, by a passing sled load of boys. He regained his feet as quickly as possible, and with fire in his eye, turned towards the retreating youngsters. His mouth twitched convulsively, and we thought he was about to favor us with a few loud remarks, but he didn't; he merely indulged in a few low mutterings and passed on. But it will not do for that same crowd to upset that man again. He's got 'em spotted.

—They have a novel way of hatching out news, out in Indianna. A man goes into a saloon, daubs about half a pint of crandberry juice over his face, takes off his hat and coat, and then rushes out into the street, yelling murder and police at every step, and after running a block or two, disappears in some alleyway. Another man then dashes out of the saloon with an axe in his hand, dripping with crandberry juice, and after running a short distance, all the time looking back over his shoulder, as if fleeing from the law, he too, suddenly disappears. Of course this attracts a large crowd, and creates intense excitement, and the next day the papers come out filled with accounts of "A Bloody Affray," "Brutal Assault Upon a Man with an Axe," etc. We suppose the papers furnish the juice.

—Mr. Dobbson got out a patent the other day. He called it a "Patent Kitchen Utensil," and it is a most wonderful invention. It is composed of wood and iron, and is so arranged that, by turning a little screw, it will immediately turn into a coffee-mill, with power attached; or, by pulling down a little slide in the handle, it will fly into a twenty-four ribbed wash-board. It can also be turned into a bread-toaster, boot-jack, and a number of other things. When Mr. Dobbson comes down stairs in the morning in bad humor, and goes moping about the house with sullen countenance, and Mrs. D. fears a gale is brewing, all she has to do, is to get out the Patent Kitchen Utensil, press down a little spring in the top, and it instantly springs into a family barometer, and by consulting this she is able to determine within four minutes of when the storm will burst upon the household, and when it does, she rushes for the barometer, seizes it, presses down another spring, and lo, and behold! she wields aloft a most formidable looking weapon, very much after the style of an Indian war club, retreats to the corner of the room, rolls up her canvass, and opens fire!

Selling Corn.

Sell no corn in the ear, have all you sell shelled. A hand shelling machine will answer if your crop is a small one. If large, get one to be worked by a horse power. Neither will cost a great deal, and we are very certain that the cobs, if crushed steamed and fed to your cattle, will be worth more to you in a single winter than the price of a corn-sheller whether you get a small or large one. We believe there is one-third as much nutriment in a bushel of cobs as there is in a bushel of grain, and we do know that cows or oxen fed upon three pecks of the steamed or crushed cobs, in addition to the usual quantity of hay, or tops of fodder, will keep fat. Then why haul your cobs to market to be given away? It costs as much to carry a bushel of cobs to market as it does a bushel of corn. Shell your corn, leave your cobs at home to nourish your cattle, and through them your land; and where you now send one bushel of corn you will be able to transport two for the same money. Look this subject fairly in the face, consult economy, consult the comfort of your cattle, consult the wants of your soil, and you cannot fail to take our advice. The above from the "American Farmer," states the cob question rather strongly. There is, no doubt, nutriment enough in the cob to pay for grinding it fine, with the corn, and the price is usually enough better to pay for shelling; but the cob has never been placed, by annalysis at more than ten per cent, of the value of the grain.—Live Stock Journal.

Hot Beds.

To the Editor.

DEAR SIR:—I would like to ask how to make a hot bed or starting bed for plants on a small scale. I think farmers living in small towns where early plants cannot be readily obtained would do well to start them themselves. I have read somewhere of cotton cloth being used instead of glass. Is it as good as glass?

A SUBSCIBER AND FRIEND.

REPLY.

Hot beds are much more difficult to manage well than amateurs think. If the young plants do not get enough of air and light they are drawn, if they get too much they may be injured by the cold or by the rays of the sun. Again, the fermentation of the manure may be too brisk, scalding the plants, or too much spent, leaving them cold. If the hot-bed be kept too wet the plants will damp off; if too dry they will be weak; if left too thick they will spindle and fall over. The general directions for preparing hot beds are to make a heap of horse manure, about two feet deep and considerbly larger than the frames to be set on it. Let it lie under the glass for a few days, till the great heat is over, but not till the bed is cold. Sift in about four inches deep a mixture of course sand and rich mold, and sow the seed. If melons or cucumbers, intended for planting out, they should be sowed in small pots, sunk in the manure.

When the seeds come up attend carefully to shading them for three or four hours in the hottest of the day, and give as much air as they will stand without being injured by cold.

Watering should be done after the sun is off, and the water used must be tepid. To water hot beds or transplanted trees or plants with cold water is most injurious, not to say destructive. Hot beds must be closed all night, and when the weather is cold, covered by matting or straw.

We have never used anything but glass sashes, but have read that oiled cotton will do pretty well, and if so it is cheaper, more easily put on frame and less liable to break than glass.

Small, bot tomless boxes covered with oiled cotton, are advantageous to protect and hasten the growth of plants newly set out, or hills of melons or other delicate vegetables sowed where they are to grow. But care should be taken to prop them up on one side, or take them off whenever the weather will permit.

Teach Your Daughters.

I have observed that the daughters of excellent housekeepers are often at a loss how to perform the most ordinary domestic operations. This ignorance on their part, is sometimes a cause of a great deal of trouble and vexation to them. A young lady told me of a mortifying occurrence which once happened to her. Soon after she was married, they went to live with her husband's mother. Desirous of making herself as useful as possible, she offered to help her mother-in-law get the dinner. "Well, my dear," said her new mother, "you may, if you please, stand by the stove and turn the fish while I set the table." "Would you believe it?" said my friend, "I turned that fish, and turned it, until it was nothing but a mass of flesh and bones, and looked more like a stir-pudding than the fine white-fish it had been at first."

I know of another lady who actually stuffed a quantity of bulls-heads, or catfish, with their skins on, using a force-meat, and cooking them according to the directions given in the cook-book for backed pickerel. Both ladies were good-naturedly laughed at, but they themselves were extremely mortified.

Many mothers say: "I dislike to have my daughters in the kitchen. They are no help—but a good deal of a hindrance. I would much rather have them stay in the parlor and play the piano." Such mothers are making a great mistake. Duty and Love should lead them to inquire: "What is best for my daughter? How can I best teach her to become a useful member of society? Will she not some time, in all probability, have a house of her own? Will it not be a great help to her to know how to manage it properly, and to be able to bake and roast meat, to get up a dinner, and to make wholesome and good bread? Who is better adapted than I, her own mother, to teach her these things?"

Such questions as these, faithfully answered, will be followed by an invitation to the daughter to assist in the duties of kitchen until she has attained to a thorough knowledge of the way ordinary food, at least, is cooked.

"THE child has since died," is the laconic remark which a paper affixes to an account of a twelve year old girl who had already mastered logic, rhetoric, geology, botany, and the mystery of mental and moral science.

A CHICAGO pork dealer, whose pew was raised twenty-five dollars, exclaimed: "Great Cæsar! here's a nice state of affairs! The gospel going up, and pork's coming down!—What is to become of us?"

Medicines, &c.

VEGETINE

Strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.

VEGETINE

Is not a vile, nauseous compound, which simply purges the bowels, but a safe, pleasant remedy which is sure to purify the blood and thereby restore the health.

VEGETINE

Is now prescribed in cases of Scrofula and other diseases of the blood, by many of the best physicians, owing to its great success in curing all diseases of this nature.

VEGETINE

Does not deceive invalids into false hopes by purging and creating a ficticious appetite, but assists nature in clearing and purifying the whole system, leading the patient gradually to perfect health.

VEGETINE

Was looked upon as an experiment for some time by some of our best physicians, but those most incredulous in regard to its merit are now its most ardent friends and supporters.

VEGETINE

Instead of being a puffed-up medicine has worked its way up to its present astonishing success by actual merit in curing all diseases of the blood, of whatever nature.'

VEGETINE

Says a Boston physician, "has no equal as a purifyer. Hearing of its many wonderful cures after all other remedies had failed, I visited the labratory and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots and herbs, each of which is highly effective, and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce astonishing results."

VEGETINE

Is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. VEGETINE was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by its use. I procured the article, and after using several bottles, was restored to health and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheertully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health. Respectfully yours.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—The two bottels of VEGETINE furnished me by your agent, my wife has used with great benefit.

For a long time she has been troubled with dizziness and costiveness; these troubles are now entirely removed by the use of VEGETINE.

She was also troubled with Dyspepsia and General Debility; and has been greatly benefitted.

I have used only two bottles and already feel myself a new man. Respectfully,

REPORT OF A PRACTICAL CHEMIST AND APOTHECARY.

BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1874.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have sold at retail 154½ dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given the best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended, that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several Scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity. Very respectfully yours,

Ayer's Hair Vigor

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will present the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit, but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

MEDICAL.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.
INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS. — While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

PARK'S BALSAM

OR

WILD CHERRY AND TAR.

BALSAM.—Nothing is more soothing to the irritated membranes than the pure BALSAMS of which this medicine is composed.

WILD CHERRY.—The true bark of Wild Cherry is an unfailing specific for all throat and pectorial diseases.

TAR.—The wonderful healing properties of Tar when united with the other ingredients, render PARK'S BALSAM the most efficient Cough Medicine ever offered to the public.

CONSUMPTION. — The many cases of Consumption that have been cured justify us in the assertion that it is the very best medicine for that disease ever discovered.

CERTIFICATES OF CURES.

STEPHEN FISK, of New York, says his daughter had consumption, and terbucles had formed in her lungs. He was induced to try Park's Balsam, which effected a speedy cure.

T. EDWARD FLEET, of Brooklyn says, I think it is the best medicine for affections of the lungs I ever used.

G. S. FANCHER, of New York says, I feel fully persuaded that Park's Balsam has saved my life.

We have in our possession hundreds of certificates from others, and all of the same cheering import. Price 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by druggists and dealers everywhere.

EGYPTIAN

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsollicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

AT PRIVATE SALE.

A valuable farm containing 215 acres, situate within one mile of Milesburg, and three miles of Bellefonte, at the junction of the Bald Eagle Valley and Snow Shoe railroads, near the depot, Schools, Churches, Post office, Mills, etc. The lands are FREE from STONE, level, well fenced, and under a good state of cultivation. A valuable vein of

is on the farm, and a village is growing up around it, which gives a fair prospect of an increase in value before long. The Philipsburg turnpike runs through it for a distance of ¾ of a mile rendering a large strip on each side available for house lots, from which the entire price of the farm might be realized, lots having sold heretofore for $100 apiece. The farm is well watered, having water in all the fields, good wells at the house and barn with pumps all in good order. There also are 50 acres of good

PINE AND OAK TIMBER.

The land has a southern exposure and is therefore very early. There are two houses on the farm, both facing the turnpike. One containing five rooms on the first floor with Hall and five on the second and back Kitchen, with room over-head. Connected with this house is a good log barn, ice house and other out buildings. On the other side of the road is the other house containing eight rooms with good barn and out buildings. This farm could be divided into two parts, and will be if purchasers so desire, making one containing 130 acres with the large house, and the other containing 36 acres with the small house. Terms easy. Inquire of James L. Sommerville, or R. T. Downing, or at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN.

AS AN ILLUMINATOR.

WHY IT IS THE SAFEST.

ELAINE will not explode while burning in a lamp, nor in any other way, as it does not contain any of the explosive compounds so frequently met with in the ordinary oil for illuminating. A lamp, filled with ELAINE, if upset or accidently broken, will not explode or burn. There is no position in which you can put a lamp filled with ELAINE, for common use, in which it will explode. As no other illuminator has such advantages of safety, ELAINE IS CERTAINLY THE SAFEST FAMILY ILLUMINATING OIL KNOWN.

——The ice on the Susquehanna is about thirty inches thick and if it floats off suddenly there will be trouble along the boarders.

——The Paper Mill dam gave way last Thursday under the pressure of high water and the Paper Company sustaind considerable damage thereby,

——An item, going the rounds says that Yale has turned out two hundred congressmen. Parents, think of this and send your sons to the Penn. State College.

——The Watchman's Turbine water wheel got out of gear last week, which probably accounts for the turbulent manner in which it fumes and foams about several editorial articles in the last REPUBLICAN.

——Mr. S. J. Row, editor and proprietor of the Raftman's Journal has taken his son, Al. M Row, into partnership, and the management of the paper is now S. J. Row & Son. Success to you, gentlemen.

——Millheim organized a Building and Loan Association on the 8th inst., with the following officers: President, A. Walter; Vice President, S. K. Foust; Secretary, B. O. Deininger; Treasurer, J. H. Riefsnyder.

——We are sorry to hear that Representative Shugert has been on the sick list at Harrisburg for a week or more past. Mr. Alexander also reports a serious cold in the head which, we suppose, is on the principle that nature abhors a vacuum.

BELLEFONTE & SNOW SHOE RAIL ROAD.—Until further notice there will be no passenger car attached to the train leaving Bellefonte for Snow Shoe at 8.10 A.M. and from Snow Shoe to Bellefonte at 2.35 P. M. DANIEL RHOADS, ——Barney McCue, the Lycoming Co. murderer, who had an appointment to be hung on St. Patrick's day, in consequence of a strong protest entered by the Catholics against the desecration of that day by the execution of a criminal, has had the appointment changed to the 20th inst.

——It sets a man to thinking, these cold night when he passes along the street, the thermometor down so low that everything creaks with frost, and, looking in through the thin sheets of glass, he sees flowers blooming and canary birds singing in a tempature of perpetual summer. How much better it is to be an innocent little bird in such a place as that, than to be a man with an immortal soul and have to spend half the winter out of doors.

——Our friend, Professor A. M. Raub, City Superintendent of Lock Haven, was presented, last week, on the occasion of the closing of the present school term of that city, a handsome gold-headed cane, by the teachers under his charge. This is a worthily bestowed compliment on a gentleman who has done as much to dignify the profession of teaching as any other man in Clinton County, since the establishment of the free-school system.

——James H. Lipton, Esq., former prothonotary of Centre County, has suffered great pain, for several weeks past, from a tumor on his neck. At the request of his frinds, he went to Philadelphia a week or two since, and consulted Dr. Levis, one of the best surgeons in the city, who advised an operation, which was successfully accomplished on Monday of last week. The tumor was entirely removed and Mr. Lipton has sufficiently recovered so as to be able to return home.

BRANCH RAIL ROAD.—We have information to the effect that the branch road from Bellefonte to Lemont will be completed just as soon after the L C & S C track is laid above Lemont, as possible. We are glad of it for our Penns valley friends will thereby find it much more convenient to come to Bellefonte to buy their groceries from the well known firm of Bechler & Co. in the Bush House Block. It is the largest, best arranged, most comprehensive and complete, as well as the best managed and cheapest grocery store in the county.

CONCERT BY THE MOUNTAIN CITY BAND.—The members of the Mountain City Band gave a concert at Reynold's Hall, last Saturday evening to a large, appreciative audience. The opening exercises consisted of several full band pieces. A song sung by two members with band accompaniment a la German Band was received with applause. An oration was then delivered by Tony McAllister. Tony makes a fine commedian and showed himself to be an actor of no ordinary ability.

A violin and tamborine performance followed by Mr. Wallace and Tony McAllister in Ethiopian characters. A duet in French by two of the members whose names we failed to learn. A clog dance by John Durstine was done up in first class style. A song "The best on the river is Valentines' Works" in which the good qualities of all connected with that enterprising establishment from the overseer down to the mule driver, were rehearsed. This song excited a great deal of merriment. We understand that it was composed by the singer. Tony's wonderful performing dog did his part remarkably well. The performance concluded by a laughable farce entitled "The Wood Sawyer's Revenge." The whole performance was very well executed and we do not hesitate to say that there are few traveling troups that do half as well. We were glad to see that they had a good audience—they deserved it. This band of perserving young men have struggled through many adverse circumstances until they have justly won a recognition from the public and the verdict of "well done."

A TELLING SERMON.—On last Sabbath morning Reverend M. L. Smyser of the Methodist church, preached a most telling and, in several particulars, remarkable sermon, from the words, "Let your light so shine before men that they seeing your good works, may glorify your Father which is in heaven." The beautiful figure that the christian church is the "light of the world" was drawn so logically and graphically, and the facts, in connection therewith, set forth in such an original and powerful a sense, that all were deeply impressed. The Divine injunction, "Let your light so shine," upon which the Reverend gentleman dwelt at length in the closing part of his discourse, was a powerful appeal in favor of a higher life, a closer walk with God, and a more earnest consecration to His service. If such sermons as the one referred to, does not have the effect of making people better, by awakening them to a sense of their duties and responsibilities it is hard to imagine what kind of preaching will. We are truly sorry with the large number of people who are in the habit of listening to his sermons, that the unvarying regulations of the church of which he is so able an exponent will soon call him to another field of labor. While his place will be hard to fill in Bellefonte, yet fortunate will be the people among whom he may be sent; and wherever he may go, there will follow him from his hosts of admirers and well-wishers in this place, many earnest, hearty God-bless-yous.

——The Watchman does us injustice by saying, in its last issue, that we are chagrined and spited because Mr. Sternburg was elected Chief Burgess. This is not correct, and we did not say so. The fact that Mr. Sternburg was elected over such an excellent, and respected citizen as Mr. Stewart Lyon, and that, too, in the face of a decided Republican majority, is sufficient evidence that he is a popular man and a good politician. The Watchman need not claim any credit for his election either; it was not Democratic, but Republican votes that elected him. Having received the votes of a majority of our citizens, it is plain that he is considered well qualified, by the majority, to discharge the duties of the office, and we believe that he will make an attentive and competent official, and he has our best wishes to that effect.

——Spring Creek and Logan's branch were foaming on Thursday and Friday. Fears were entertained that the Planing-mill dam might give way from the great pressure of water, and a number of anxious residents and property owners along the turbid stream, watched its rise and fall for two days and two nights. Messrs. W. W. Curtin of the Car works, Col. Bayard and Wm. P. Duncan, Esq., were quite uneasy until the water subsided; and not without cause for if the dam had given way they would have sustained a heavy loss. Since the streams have come down to first principles again, they all conclude that there was not the least danger of the dam giving way.

——Rev. C. H. Reiter, of the Reformed church at Aaronsburg, after a pastorate of over seven years has resigned his charge and accepted a call from Sunbury. The Centre Reporter in speaking of Mr. Reiter says:

"May the Lord accompany him and his family to his new field of labor, and graciously bless the work of his hands, and make him an efficient and useful instrument there in the upbuilding of the Redeemer's Kingdom."

——Colonel Joseph Adams, a well known and respected citizen of Millheim, died on Thursday 18th,

——The man who predicted an open winter, told the truth. There must have been a big opening somewhere to let in so much cold.

——A fire at Emporium, Cameron County, on Washington's birthday, destroyed $70,000 worth of property. Total insurance $30,000.

——The musical convention that was to be held in Miles township last week was indefinitely postponed, because they didn't get their singing books.

——A man named Hughes, at Houtzdale, stole a watch last week from Mr. Ed. Rosever, was apprehended, had a hearing, and in default of bail was sent to jail.

——The insurance on the Moshannon school house burned on Friday, 12th inst, was promptly adjusted by the special agent of the Lycoming Mutual on Monday last.

——On the inside of to-day's REPUBLICAN will be found the official returns of the late election in every borough and township in the county, except Bellefonte, which was given last week.

——The Benner and Spring township Sunday School Institute will be held in the Methodist church, Pleasant Gap, on Friday, March 12th, at two o'clock. All friends of the Sunday school cause are invited to attend.

——Andy Reesman, Esq., our boyhood friend, has been appointed deputy post master at Centre Hall. The office has been removed to his stove and tinware establishment, and fitted up in excellent style with lock boxes and other improvements.

——A friend of ours who insists that we withhold his name, presented us on Saturday with a box of "golden eagle" cigars. If he knew the amount of comfort laid up for us in that box, as against trouble, bad-digestion and over-due accounts, we imagine he would consider his generousity in a measure requited.

——A couple of sled loads of young people from town surprised Mr. Caleb Kepheart and family at his pleasant home in Benner township a few evenings since; and they had a delightful time of it because they visited one of the most charming homes and one of the most hospitable families in Centre county.

——Wm. K. Alexander was sworn in as a member of the lower house on Thursday last. His Penns Valley friends are anxious to know if he will accept his salary for the full term, when he will only have been a member for two or three weeks; or whether he will do like Samuel Gilliland, Esq., give his pay, for what he did not earn, to the treasury of the County.

——The "Watchman" patriotically says, "the American people will never set George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and their compeers, so far in the back-ground as to give Grant the preferance." That's what we say, too. And if anybody comes 'round this office cutting up such monkey-shines as that, he'll find out we keep a head-ache stick on hand.

——Major James Hemphill, formerly a resident of Bellefonte was called here from Erie, his present residence, last week to attend the funeral of his sister-in-law the late Mrs. Alfred Hays. While here he received the news of the death of his father Mr. Thomas Hemphill of Philadelphia. Mr H. had reached the ripe age of 92, was a soldier of the war of 1812, and a man of great intelligence and usefulness.

——The Reporter of last week is savage on our contemporary across the way. The editor, in order to have relieved himself of so much sarcasm, scorn, and indignation, must have been terribly worked up about something. On the Sabbath previous, we saw him in his parlor, with a countenance as serene and placid as a summer-holiday, sitting up at a handsome big organ playing and singing,

> We all love one another,
> We all love one another,
> We all love one another,
> We're on our journey home.

——Mr. Henry Mark, of Gregg township, and family, consisting of wife and children, were poisoned, on Friday 12th inst, by eating "liver-wurst." The entire family, except Mrs. Mark, suffered greatly for several days; all, however, recovered. The "liver-wurst" had been placed in crocks while hot, and the glazing inside became soft and mixed with the contents. Red lead, which is a part of the composition called glazing, is a deadly poison. House keepers should use only well burned crocks.

——A young man named Kane, a pro tem. Philipsburger of flawsome character, came into possession of a suit of clothes the other day in a way that didn't please his tailor. He selected an excellent suit and got permission to take them home to try them on. They proved to be an excellent fit, just about five minutes before the passenger train for Tyrone came along, which he boarded. He, of course, will not return soon and the Journal thinks the borough ought to pay the tailor the price of the clothes and consider that it is getting rid of Kane very cheaply.

——Rush township affairs are still in a state of unrest, says the Journal, and the poor tax is still the cause of trouble. At the election on the 16th instant, H. B. Wilcox was duly elected an Overseer of the Poor, and was inducted into office on Saturday. After he had been qualified he demanded of D. Logan, the legality of whose appointment as collector of poor tax by his predecessors is in question, but who had a special appointment, by authority, to serve as Overseer until the election, the delivery of the duplicate of 1874. Logan refused to deliver it, and in turn demanded the tax for that year assessed against Wilcox. This was also refused whereupon Logan threatened to collect by levy and sale. On Monday, while Wilcox had gone to Bellefonte to strengthen his authority and take measures for enforcing his demand for the duplicate the collector went upon the premises of Wilcox and levied upon a buggy. But if Mr. Wilcox was not at home, Mrs. Wilcox was, and interposed so vigorous a protest against the proceeding that Logan did not get away with the wagon without trouble. He now has it advertised for sale, and while Wilcox was again gone to Bellefonte, on Wednesday, Logan swore out a warrant for his wife, on a charge of assault and battery, and where the matter will end there is no telling.

Since the above was in type the lady has had a hearing, before Justice Shoop, and Wm. Riddles, Esq., being allowed to appear in her behalf, the Justice decided that there was no cause for action.

——Something of an excitement was raised in Boggs township a short time since, by an alleged overthrashing given to a pupil of one of the schools by Mr. Shuey, the teacher. A correspondent in last week's Watchman alleges that Mr. S. administered 36 strokes with a hickery rod upon the back of the unruly boy. We don't like to see such things get into the papers, and only refer to the above case, in order to enter our protest against too severe corporal punishment. There may be times when the rod of correction is necessary in the school room; but we don't believe in having a little Delaware, with pilory and stocks, in every school house. As a general thing, the teachers who succeed best, don't gain success by main strength. There is another, and a more rational method; and, while we do not presume to censure Mr. Shuey, not knowing the facts, we hope the time will come when 'thrashings' in the school room will only be remembered as relics of barbarism.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION.—As was stated in these columns two weeks since, one of the results of the visit of a committee of lumbermen from this region to the managers of the Pennsylvania Rail Road Company, was a promise on their part to examine the matter of freights on lumber shipped east, with a view to putting this section on an equality with other lumber-producing sections. True to that promise, the rates have been examined and official notice has been received that a reduction of thirty-five per cent, upon the rates of transportation upon hemlock lumber has been made. We are not advised that there has been any reduction made upon pine, as yet. We think the committee may congratulate itself upon the success of its efforts, and we are gratified to find that the control of freight rates is in such obliging and just hands.

——The lecture of Col. W. W. Brown in the Court House on Tuesday of last week, under the auspices of the Junior Sons of 76, was not as well attended as it should have been, considering that the proceeds were to be given to the needy people of the town. We were not present to hear the lecture and cannot speak of its merits; but there was one feature about it that we like: the proceeds still remain in Bellefonte and were not carried away by a stranger who might not have done better than Brown; it goes to relieve our needy neighbors and not to enrich some foreigner, whom we may never have seen before and never expect to see again.

——The Bellefonte Fish Company are stocking Spring Creek and its tributaries with trout. The first instalment of ten thousand was deposited in Logan's branch, week before last. This is done at the expense of the company, but every body that can throw a line will be entitled to enjoy the benefits. The company will strictly enforce the fish laws; ducks and geese are now, we believe considered game, and may be captured by anybody finding them in the water of Spring Creek or Logan's branch.

DEATH OF HARVEY MANN.—Last week we published that the accident met with by Mr. Harvey Mann, on the railroad near Steubenville, was not considered fatal, and that he would be able to return home in a few days. Since then, the worst has been realized.

The accident, which resulted in his death, occurred at Mingo, Station four miles east of Steubenville, Ohio, at about two o'clock on Friday morning, February 19th A broken rail threw five cars down a twenty-five foot embankment. In the descent, the cars were badly smashed and the stoves broken so that everything was on fire in a short time. It is surprising, that in this terrible fall, only six of the forty passengers on board, were seriously injured, Mr. Mann being of the unfortunate number. When the door of the car which he occupied, was broken open, he with the others were carried out, in an insensible condition and laid, wrapped in a blanket, on the snow, until a place could be provided. Next morning the railroad authorities telegraphed to his friends here, that he had met with a painful but not, they thought, serious accident. On Friday afternoon, Mr. Cameron Burnside left here and arrived at Steubenville on Saturday morning, and telegraphed to Mrs. Mann, (mother of the deceased,) that the physicians thought he was not seriously injured and that he would be able to come home in a few days. Day after day for almost a week, dispatches came to the effect that he was improving, but still not able to be removed; until Friday last, when the physician telegraphed Mrs. Mann that he could not recover and that he would live but a short time. Mrs. Mann arrived at Steubenville on Saturday morning about four o'clock, and spent with him the last few hours of his life. He died at ten o'clock Saturday morning, being perfectly rational till the last.

The wounds causing his death were, a scalp wound reaching from the temple above the right eye almost to the base of the skull, a bruise in the centre of the forehead, and a number of bruises on the breast and side.

His remains were conveyed to this place by special train which arrived at ten o'clock on Sunday morning. A large number of relatives and friends of the deceased followed his mortal remains to his former home, about two miles south of Bellefonte.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, the interment being in the family lot in the Bellefonte cemetery. Deceased was in the thirty-seventh year of his age.

This sad, sudden death has cast a gloom over the entire community, not only on account of the sudden and distressing circumstances connected with his untimely end, but because of his usefulness as a citizen and his worth as a man.

Born and raised at "Mann's Axe-Factory," he learned the business, for so many years carried on successfully by his father. After the latter's death, about five years since, he took charge of the works and managed them successfully. He thoroughly understood his calling and in business circles was recognized as a thrifty, prompt, intelligent and thoroughly reliable business man. Aside from his excellent abilities as a business man, he was large-hearted and generous, of simple habits, few words and possessed of no other than noble and honorable impulses. That he was beloved and respected by those around him, was wellattested in the tears that fell from the eyes, and expressions of sorrow manifested by the workmen who came to look upon his face for the last time. They had been in his employ for years and knew him as their friend and benefactor and their manifestions of grief were truly pitiable.

There was one other trait in his character that is yet above all these—he was good to his mother. During the illness that resulted in his father's death, he was his constant attendant, and the good old father, when he closed his eyes in death, left as faithful a son as ever did patriarch of old. Faithfully and well did he comfort and support the old age of his widowed mother. Alas, that she should be left, the last of her family, in her old age, to await in sadness, the bidding of Heaven. The poet has expressed her sorrow with fearful truthfulness in the following lines:

"I saw when the trustful, fond mother had lean'd
On the arms of a dear cherished son;
And the star of the future grew bright to her gaze
As he saw the proud place he had won.

And the fast coming evening of life promised fair,
And the pathway grew smooth to her feet,
And the starlight of love glimmered bright at the end,
And the whispers of fancy were sweet.

but I saw, when she stood, bending low o'er his grave
Where her heart's dearest hope had been laid
And the star had gone down in the darkness of night,
And peace from her bosom had fled.

But the Healer was there, and His arms were around,
And He led her with tenderest care;
And He showed her a star in the bright upper world:
"Twas their star shining brightly there."
D. H. H.

——Kurtz of the Reporter, seems to think that we are in financial difficulty, because we published an article last week, reflecting on him for having a law passed in '67, when he was a member of the Legislature, increasing notarial fees fifty per cent. He says; "fellows who can't run their own little fippenny-bit shanty without being haunted by notaries' fees, should shut up shop and go to scissors-grinding."

Kurtz would have shut up shop long since, and even failed in the business he advises us to undertake, or any other business of the nature he mentions in the last word of the above quotation, if he had not been fortunate enough to marry a lady of great forbearance who has also boarded and fed him with her own money, and carried on and paid the bills of the Reporter ever since she took him to raise. A fellow so well fixed as Kurtz, may well laugh at short bank accounts, protests and probates.

——On Friday afternoon last the earth suddenly gave way in front of the Court House and left a deep hole five or six feet in diamter. The rumor soon spread over town that the bottom had fallen out of the Court House Ring; it was hard to account for that giving way of terra firma in any other manner. Some people with a philosophical turn, thought that Commissioner Hinton must have been stamping 'round there in the morning; but Prothonotary Williams came along and told the spectators that he remembered seeing an old well there about 110 years ago, and he'd been looking for it to cave in for some time.

CAUTION.—We have for the last three years been sending out Sample Bottles of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. We now find other parties advertising Sample Bottles in the same way. All we have seen of these little Sample Bottles contain Ether or Chloroform, intended only to dry up a cough for a day or two. Be careful to call for BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP which contains no Ether, Chloroform or Opium, but the secret of its success is in a German Extract of ciples of Gum Arabic, and Physicians buy our medicines and use it in their practice successfuly. Sold by F. P. GREEN.

SPRINGLESS TRUSSES AND SUPPORTERS.—Dr. G W Hotchkiss has consented finally by the most earnest solicitation of citizens of this locality to visit as follows: Lock Haven, Irvin House, March 24 & 25, Bellefonte, Brockerhoff House, 26, 27 & 28; Frenchville, Mulson House, 29 & 30. Dr. Hotchkiss has visited this State professionally before and is well and favorably known. His trusses and supporters have given the best satisfaction. The truss has no springs or hard metalic substance; it can be worn night and day and by so doing the rupture heals. There are persons in Bradford County, this state, who have been healed under Dr. Hotchkiss' treatment. Therefore all persons afflicted with hernia should avail themselves of the opportunity because he is truly a good Samaritan in his profession. ——The Watchman is now playing lick-spittle to the Junior Sons of '76—wants them to vote for him next fall to overcome in a measure, the slaughter he will sustain over the mountain. It will not do Meek, they are not the boys to be caught twice in the same trap.

CRAZY JOHN GATES.—This monstrosity who escaped from the insane asylum at Danville shortly after he was placed there, says the Clinton Democrat, and who returned to his former home in Potter township, where he has since been a terror to the citizens of that section, was captured at the house of Lydia Craft, up Marsh Creek, about 12 miles from Bellefonte, on Wednesday morning of last week. Sheriff Fleming received notice of his presence there, and immediately dispatched officer Fowler for him. The officer sent a citizen of the neighborhood ahead of him to see if Gates was in the house, and upon learning that he was, Fowler walked in without ceremony and arrested him but not without an effort at escape.

Gates was handcuffed and brought to Lock Haven and on Tuesday sent to Danville asylum. He had been roaming from Marsh Creek to Washington Furnace and had succeeded in making himself a terror to the people on his line of travel, and they will feel grateful to Sheriff Fleming and officer Fowler for their riddance of this mischeivous and dangerous man. At Danville they rather think that Gates has more devilment than insanity in him; but he is a dangerous character whether crazy or not, and it is hoped that they will not let their desire to be rid of him cause them to lessen their watchfulness so that he may escape again to terrorize the people and possibly injure or kill some one.
